A large, ornate clock face is the central focus of the image. The clock has a dark, possibly metal, frame with several hands. The numbers 7, 8, and 9 are visible on the right side of the clock face. The clock is mounted on a decorative base. The base features a figure, possibly a knight or a hero, holding a shield and a sword. A large, five-pointed star is positioned to the right of the figure. The background is a textured, light-colored surface.

"Pleasant memories must be arranged in advance." This quote describes what this yearbook set out to do and accomplished. We developed a book that would honestly reflect our high school years in pictures of our friends, activities, teachers, sports and surroundings, of poetry and stories of events that are important to us. As we travel ahead through the tunnel of life, we will be able to look back through this yearbook and remember the time that was. Just when you think tomorrow will never come, it's yesterday.

Dedication

Seldom do we meet a person who is so effective in her job and so considerate in her dealings with people. The Andover High School Graduating class of 1977 has chosen to dedicate this yearbook to Mrs. Mary Skinner, a woman who has continually demonstrated excellence and kindness throughout her years with us.

Mrs. Skinner has worked in the school system since 1963 and has been with the High School as a secretary since it opened in 1968. During this time she has always been helpful to the staff and students, treating each individual with respect and dignity. Because we are thankful for your thoughtfulness, Mrs. Skinner, we gratefully dedicate this yearbook to you.

IN MEMORY OF ANNE WOBESKY

We try to understand it
It's hard for us to know,
Our friend is now departed
But yet she still is near.
Our eyes may never see her
Yet in our hearts she's dear.
We miss her
Though she's with us,
We cry
For us not her.
She's happy now,
We should be too,
Yet in our heart is sorrow.
For love we wish to say,
I hear Anne is with us.
So close your eyes and smile
And tell Anne everything you feel.
She's closer
Now than ever
In everything we do.
A little of Anne
Is in us to show
Anne is happy all the time
Anne is always kind.
We must carry on like Anne,
A smile and sunshine.

E.D.

IN MEMORY OF PETER T. AUMAIS

Oh dearest friend
I have to say I know that we
Will part some day.
And when that . . .
Dreadful day is here
I know that it will shed
More than one tear.
Although we will be apart,
You know you will
Forever stay in my heart.
So dearest friend,
Do not forget, all the times
That we would go out to get
All the love we had inside
To share in comfort
And in pride.
As our life has many changes
Like a prism glass
That takes the light
In different stages.
As we shared
Our sorrows and grief,
We always got through them
With some relief.
So dearest friend, when
We depart on our own,
I'll never forget
The BEST FRIEND
I've EVER KNOWN.

Today's Weather: Who Knows?

AHS CLASS OF 1977 GRADUATES

It is June 8, 1977 and four hundred and sixty young men and women receive their high school diplomas. Hopefully, they are ready to face the "Real World", to embark on this new, challenging stage of life. Whether or not Andover High School has succeeded in its attempts to produce mature, motivated graduates, only time will tell. The overall good quality of the Class of '77 would indicate that, yes, in ten years from now a reunion would be far from a disappointment.

Its unity, warmth, and friendliness are qualities which characterized the group and which will always be associated with this very special Class of '77.

It has really happened! Congratulations to the great ex-Senior Class of Andover High.

Mr. Morton Retires

Andover High School has been privileged for the last thirteen years to have had Mr. Forrest Morton as a dedicated and outstanding teacher of history. Mr. Morton has been teaching at Andover High School since 1964. He is a graduate of Tufts University and received his Master of Arts degree at Harvard. His past teaching experiences include positions at both public and boarding schools. Before serving in the armed forces during World War II, Mr. Morton participated in the Civilian Conservation Corps.

Mr. Morton taught history as a living subject, emphasizing many of the concepts of people, and it is the nature of people to be exasperating and unpredictable. This is what makes people fascinating and life interesting. Mr. Morton says, "What makes a person important is what he gives to others." Giving the greatest gift he possesses—himself—Mr. Forrest Morton has shown himself to be an exceptional man, scholar, and teacher at Andover High.

—Jeri Zeder and Diane Syiek—

The wind travels through the

And whistles its way throughout the house.
The shutters shake,
The doors blow shut,
And the eerie feeling is felt by all . . .
The traveling of the wind.

ETERNAL

LOOKING BACK . . .

Ah, high school. Andover High School. Pep rallies, Homecoming, Friday night dances, the Prom . . . and then there were classes, homework, tests, more homework, quizzes, more homework. This was High School. But what really happened during these three years?

Excitement . . . uncertainty . . . beginnings. Sophomore year started and we were High School Students. Remember how it felt? It was not our school yet. We were strangers and at times were lonely and overwhelmed. Sophomores tend to be silent minorities, and we were no exception at first. Then came the Great Study Hall Controversy. United we stood, out yes, united we sat in the study halls. Junior year, however, was hall-less for most of us.

We were the youngest people in school, but we were much older than our junior high friends. There was pride in our newly elevated position, and there was pride in our newly acquired freedom and independence.

Junior year began without butterflies, for the school had become ours. The faces we saw were easily recognizable and first day activities were routine; the previous year's anticipation was replaced with the comfort of familiarity.

Eleventh grade offered opportunities for growth and awareness. We felt with alarm the quickly approaching future. Keep an eye on those grades! Get into work-study! Find out who your guidance counselor is!

This was the year in which many of us developed into adults. Our view of life expanded; there is a Real World out there waiting for us. There was also the comfort of realizing that we wouldn't be thrown into it right away . . . because first there would be Senior Year!

Senior year is one of extremes. The end of a way of life brings feelings of anticipation, fear, and uncertainty. School activities either become mundane because of over-exposure, or very exciting because of sentimentality. It is a year to be remembered as the final year of being a "kid". As we move away from our pasts and towards our futures, we must try to counter-balance the new life-styles, experiences, and relationships with reminders of That Which Was. Our memorable years at Andover High School.

HOLD FAST YOUR DREAMS.

It's about time someone sang my praises
And if I can't twist someone's arm enough to do it for me
Then I guess I'll just have to do it myself.
Thank you, Lord,
for making me.
I'm proud to say, I'm happy.
Thank you, Lord,
for giving me a smile;
One that can shine on people
while at the same time
Smiling inwards at myself.
Thank you, Lord,
for making me a bumbling fool,
For though I often curse and complain
I'm happier than I seem.
I'm a smiling, bumbling fool,
and that's me.
But I love me.
I love me enough to wrap my arms around me,
Even when no one else will,
And say,
"Thank you, Lord, for making me!"

You may be momentarily forgotten
In my journey
Away from here.
But in some obscurity you tenderly touched my life.
And all who have some time
Caressed my mind
Will be remembered . . .
. . . warmly.
Take my heart unto your mind
and learn.
We all grow up,
So they say.
And we learn to accept responsibilities, and do things only adults do,
So they say.
And life is tough,
So they say.
But that's the way things are,
So they say.
And you can't change them . . .
SO THEY SAY.

Tomorrow when the sun shines brighter,
I'll think of you and smile
For the moments of laughter
you gave me
During the storm.
A place called tomorrow
on a road called today.
Sunshine plays softly on the trees
That lazily bend with the breeze
And song birds call to one another
As I sit talking with another.
Silences make the real conversations between friends.
Not the saying but the never needing to say is what counts.

Winning And Losing

To many at Andover High, football was the most important part of school life. The players, the cheerleaders, the Indians, the band, and the fans encompass a large population of the school. To all involved, winning was the only way known, until last fall. Andover High's Golden Warrior football team had been Merrimack Valley Conference Champs for three consecutive years and Division II State Champs for two consecutive years. The team had won thirty-nine straight games. On Saturday, October 10, Andover fans were shown a grim reality. This was the first loss of the season, but there were more to come.

the dominant team. The Andover stands were a little shaken and disappointed, but the opponents' sides were overjoyed. Winning is something that should be shared and it was about time Andover started sharing the thrill of victory.

Everyone has to learn that winning along with losing is part of life. Andover was about to go without that valuable lesson until defeat presented itself. Winning all the time is not usually true in life and neither should it be true in school-boy football. Football and all other sports should foster good values and experiences that will be useful in later years.

The beautiful bubble had been broken. Andover was no longer

THE SCULPTOR

Every man needs another for to find his way. Listen:

In a tiny far away village there lived a community of peasants. They had known each other all their lives, as had their parents and grandparents. And each person had a dream of his own. One man wished to be the greatest tailor of the town; another wished to be the finest dairyman. A certain woman hoped to become the most capable shepherd. And so on. But there was one man who lived alone. He was quite lonely, but he was too proud to admit to his loneliness. And since this man never spoke to a soul, he had never been enchanted with new thoughts nor felt the enthusiasm of one who had a purpose in life. All that this man knew was his own hunger, his own toils, his own feelings. He did not know others may be unhappy or hungry. He believed he was unique. His isolation did not allow him to see he was as humble and searching as the other people in the village. So day in and day out this man tilled his small patch of earth for his own food, believing in nothing but himself, for he knew of nothing else.

Life in the poor village seldom changed. Then, one day a stranger wandered into town.

Needing a place to rest, he found what appeared to be an abandoned wheelbarrow outside the house of the lonely man. He slept for a night, and then another. The lonely man saw the stranger sleeping within his wheelbarrow and became rather curious. No one had ever before taken such a liking to any of his possessions. On the second morning of the stranger's arrival, the lonely man awakened him and invited him for breakfast. Not knowing how to speak to others very well, the man hoped the stranger would speak first. But the stranger did not speak either, so the two ate in silence. Suddenly, the stranger spied a wooden sculpture in the corner of the room. "Did you carve that?" he asked.

"Yes", replied the lonely man. "I whittle when I have no other work. Why do you ask?"

The stranger smiled. "I carve wood to make a living", he answered. "I have carved for peasants, poets, and kings. I would love nothing more than to be remembered as the greatest sculptor of wood ever to live."

The lonesome man was delighted as the sculptor told of his travels working for kings and teachers, priests and commonfolk. The stranger's enthusiasm excited those very feelings the lonely man himself felt whenever he carved his own wood. He wished the stranger would stay forever, but he had to move on. Before he left, he promised that he would someday return to see the sculptures of the lonely man.

Something in the way the stranger spoke, the love he seemed to have for his work, motivated the lonely man to work even more diligently on his own sculptures. The idea of sharing what he had as the stranger did made him feel more complete. From that day on, the man was no longer lonely, for he shared his works with others and in doing so, they shared themselves with him.

Exerpts Of Dave Stein's Campaign Speech

Hi, speaking out on the major issues in one's campaign could lead him to a convincing victory. The issues that I include will be related to this school and its surroundings.

One of the strongest policies in this platform is my stand on foreign affairs. I never have liked the way foreign policy in this school has been handled. I myself would employ a friendly feeling toward our neighbors up on Rt. 28. Phillips Academy, although second best, is nevertheless a great school and we should take advantage of what a mutually friendly relationship may bring us.

I suggest a meeting set up in a neutral town, between their student government and ours . . . It could bring this long cold war with them to an end and bring peace in our time. Not an empty peace, but peace with HONOR!

Another problem is inflation, which has really plagued us over the years. Rising prices and scarcity of jobs has made it difficult to even take a girl out on a date. If elected, I propose the lowering the price of prom tickets and a semi-formal . . .

If this class is interested in providing a leader for their final year at this high school, I suggest me.

WAHS: The Voice Of Andover High

The Radio Club at AHS was formed in 1975. It began to take a terrible tumble, before the Senior Class decided to save it. Kim Cronin and David Stein worked hard with principal Philip Wormwood to devise a plan to develop a communications program for the school. This would include school news for information, and music for entertainment. Other future programs include interviews, feature stories, and language broadcasts into specific rooms.

President Chip Rosenthal is the student representative for the Radio Club. He worked hard to reorganize the building of the new radio station.

We hope that the students of Andover High will continue to make progress in improving the radio station, so it may be enjoyed in the years to come.

—David Stein—

WAHS organizers: Dave Stein, Kim Cronin, and Chip Rosenthal

My policies are up to date and I strive for a better school and better student body. I run on freedom, justice and purity. A vote for me is a vote for America.

I never tell a lie and I love apple pie. What more could you want? As for me, I want your vote . . . Thank you.

LARC Ends First Year

The Lawrence Area Regional Collaboration (LARC) has had an exciting and productive year.

LARC is a new program which is designed to broaden a student's education, both academically and socially.

Five area high schools participate in the program—Andover, North Andover, Lawrence, Vo-Tech, and Phillips Academy.

There are three main LARC programs. The Family Culture group, the Historical group, and the Bilingual Career group. The Family culture group involves working with small children at such places as the Singer Learning Center and Headstart, as well as the area kindergartens. They study the influence of ethnic backgrounds on the raising of children. The middle-income high school students work with the lower-income pre-schoolers, while the lower-income high school students work with the higher-income pre-schoolers. This enables the students to experience customs of different cultures and backgrounds.

The Historical group studied the textile movement in the Merrimac Valley, which occurred at the turn of the century. The group studied the literature of the time, the land use, the factory workers, and the effect of the textile movement on the growth of our cities and towns.

Members of LARC

The Bilingual Career Division had a late start, having begun in January. This group is a pre-career branch of LARC. It deals with students who want to go into some type of bilingual career such as social work, banker, teacher, and many others. Hopefully the Bilingual Division will enjoy a longer season next year.

The LARC program has proven to be exceptionally worthwhile to all who were involved. Not only did those students learn many things about the area and future careers, but they also gained a sense of perspective and insight of the world.

This group of twelve Andover High School students and Mr. Brennen, their advisor, had a rewarding and highly successful year. It is hoped that in the near future this program will expand, allowing many more students to take part in this experience.

—Kim Cronin—

The noise enveloped me,
I was the core of the uproar.
Words, shrieks, laughter,
whispers,
All around my one being.
Closed eyes did not block out the sounds.
Hands over ears only muffled
it.
A steady humming of my own voice,
That just jumbled all noises
in my mind.
The racket continued,
Despite my unheard protests.
My eyes pleaded with those unseeing,
My first sob reached not one ear.
Ever so slowly, it quieted.
The voices died down, and,
Suddenly only whimpers were heard.
I had peace at last—
Although I had to sacrifice pride, and bargain for embarrassment.

Our ABC Classmates And Friends

ABC—A Better Chance—to better oneself. For ten years now this has been the aim of the dozens of students affiliated with this educational institution.

The pride, culture, and background of the minority students have been shared, while educational and personal goals have been attained, helped by the social and academic resources which Andover High School has to offer. ABC students are determined to take advantage of this opportunity for personal and educational advancement; and we do succeed. As we graduate from this school, we leave as well-rounded, more mature young adults.

The graduating class of ABC students has spent three years in Andover expanding their lives. This experience has been rewarding and enjoyable. It has been a great experience. We will take with us fond memories and friendships.

If I could save Time in a bottle
The first thing that I'd like to do
Is to save every day
'Til Eternity passes away
Just to spend them with you

But there never seems to be enough time
To do the things you want to do
Once you find them
I've looked enough to know
That you're the one I want to go Through time with

ACTIVITIES

Senior Class Officers

This year the senior student council of 1977 wanted to make their class special. David Stein led the class of 1977 to a prosperous year. David's introduction of many programs was the key to such success.

Such programs were "Senior Deal", in which seniors and the entire student body were given a chance to get involved in a senior activity a month. Some of the ideas included girls' football and a senior talent show.

The senior class also worked on projects like WAHS, and worked together with other schools such as North Andover and Phillips Academy.

The Vice President, Bill Halton and Secretary-Treasure, Martha Moynihan were both key factors in the successful class of 1977. The senior class would like to thank Kim Cronin a member of the Student Council who individually had the most influence on the class of 1977.

Student Advisory

The members this year were Matt Mirisola, Chairperson, Susan Babicki, Secretary-Treasurer, Rachell Bowen, Ralph Higgs and Susan LaRochelle.

This years members were more dedicated than in the past years and accomplished a great deal. They became more involved with the educational process by having meetings every week and attending all school committee meetings. They have tried to get more involved in as effort to decrease growing apathy among teachers and students.

Student Advisory Council initiated Teacher of the Month, introduced the Senior Priviledge Plan, scheduled dances and had meetings with different groups in the school and coordinated Student Government.

A.F.S. International Dinner

This year AFS students, David Morris from Australia, and Carmen Bokin from the Marshall Islands came to learn of the American cultures. Carmen was surprised to see the snow and she really likes Andover. David liked the Boston area and felt that the U.S. was more of a melting-pot in regard to its ethnic background compared to Australia's. During the past summer, senior Robyn Marciano experienced the Finnish way of life while senior Diane Syiek went to Argentina. President Barbara Shaker reigned over a creative group, who hosted the annual AFS dinner, that was very successful.

PEP CLUB

This year's Varsity Field Hockey Team was led this year by Coach Normile and tri-captains Carol Conroy, Chris Annick, and Eileen Sullivan. The team, with four returning seniors, put a lot of effort and fun into the game. The season progressed with the players improving noticeably and as a last hurrah kept Methuen out of the State finals. Mrs. Robinson's J.V.s had a good season coming out on top with a record of 10-3-1.

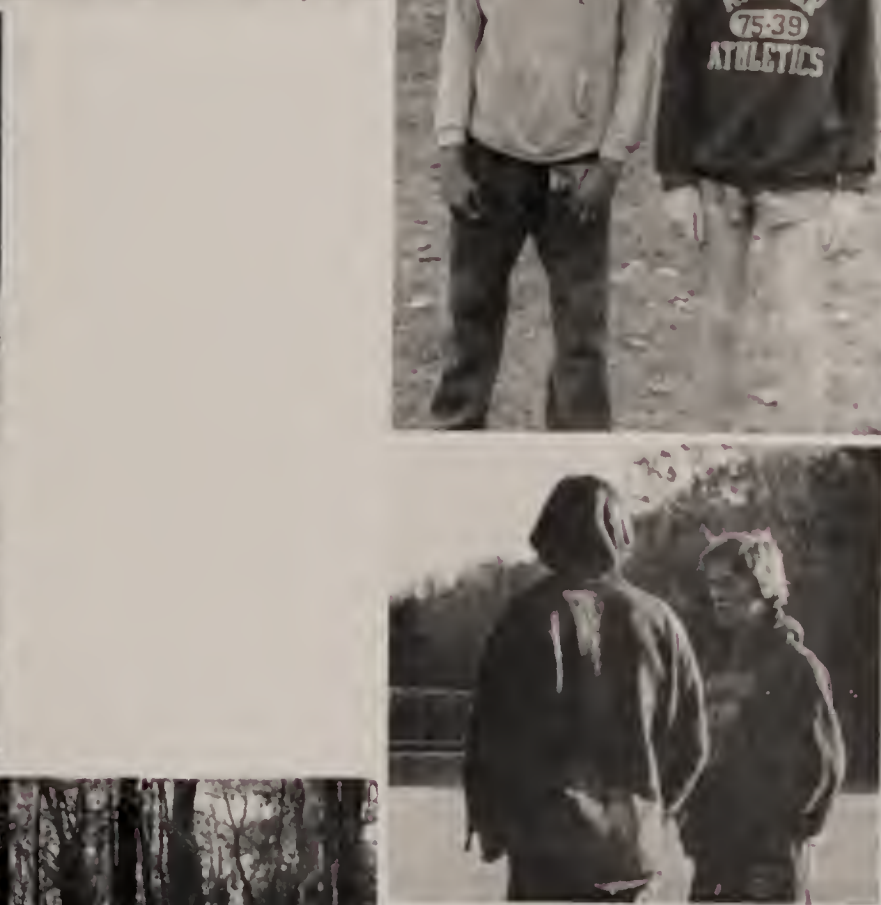

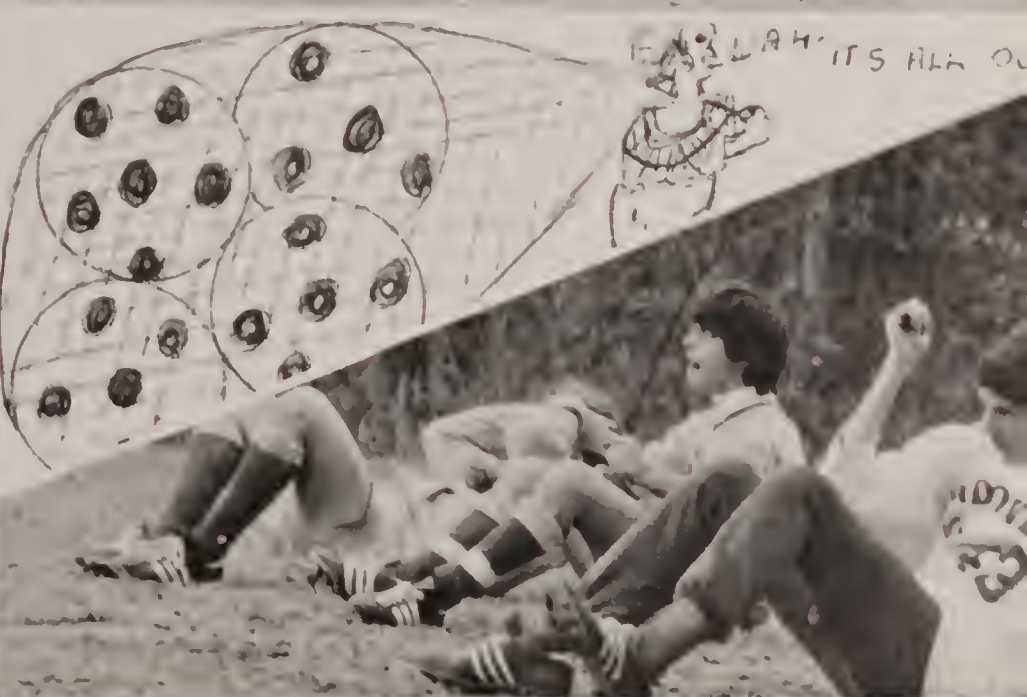

The Girls Cross Country team coached by Mr. Grasso were limited by the number of competitors. However the team still managed to chalk up a record of 1-2. Next year promises to be a good year with all the veterans returning except for the loss of captain, Betsy Eccles.

Co-Captains

WE CAN WIN THIS GAME

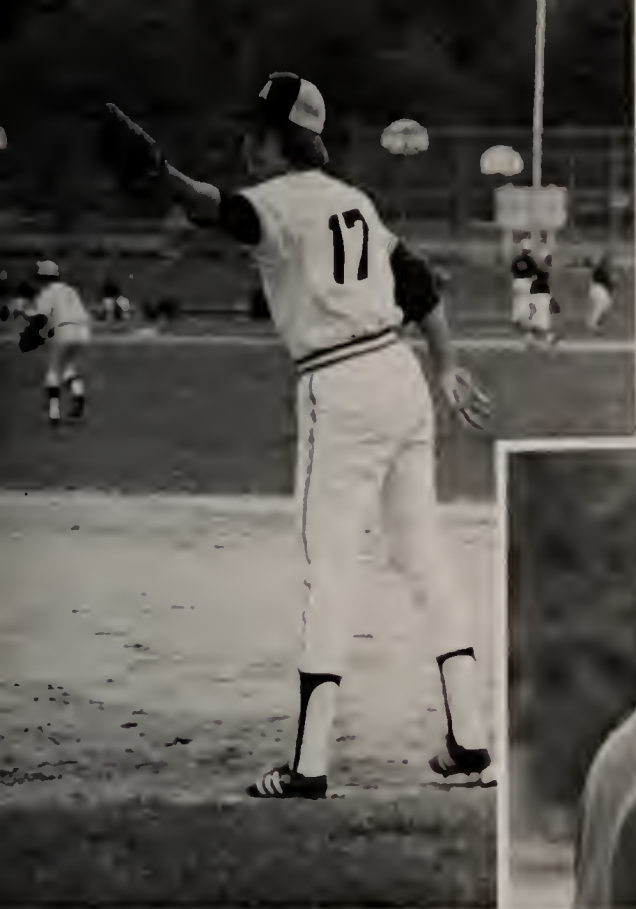

WE BEAT THE STRIPES OFF OUR COMPETITION.

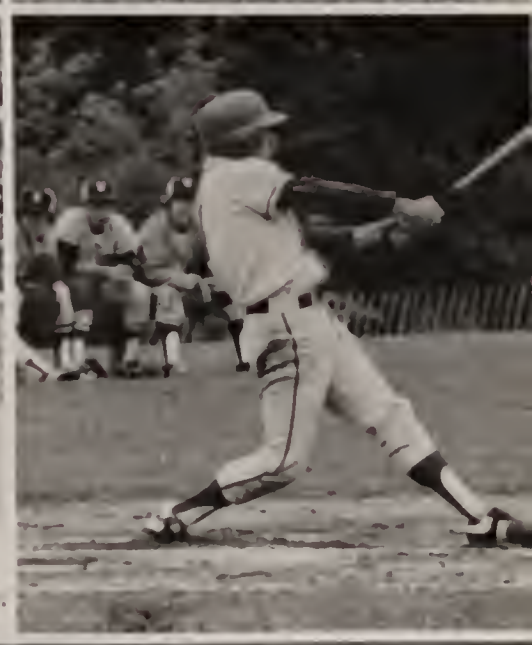

The Girls High School Swim Team wound up their second year varsity team with a record of 6-1-1. The team had as head coaches Carol and Ed Dowd, assistant coaches Ed Ratyna and Bob Wright and diving coach Frank Patterson. The 45-member team, co-captained by Bobbi Wright and Colleen Dowd, placed ninth out of 33 at the Eastern Championships this year. Watch out for them next year!

Baseball

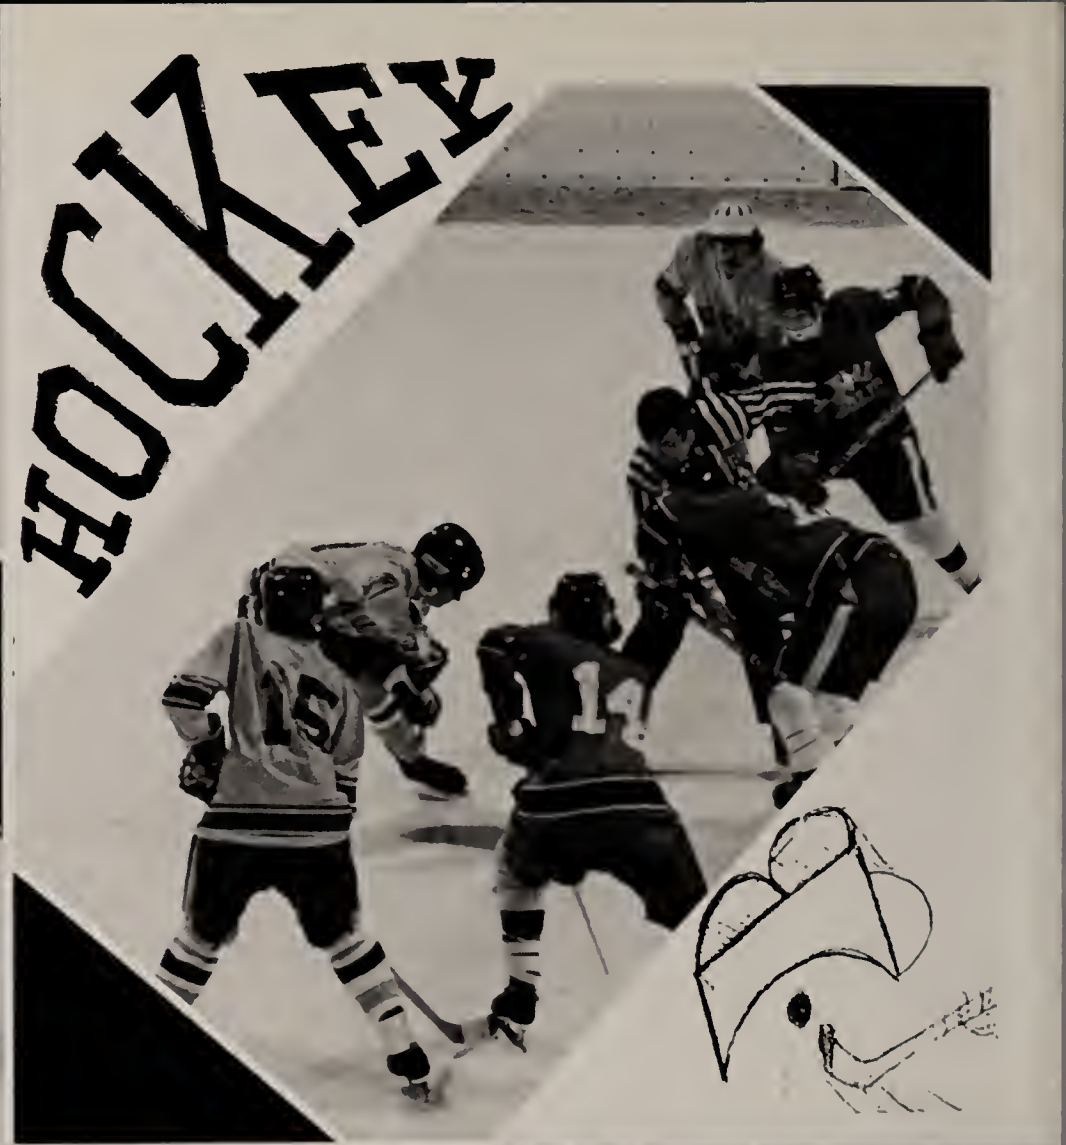

The Girls Volleyball Team coached by Mrs. Lawson, compiled an 11-4 varsity record and a 13-2 J.V. record. Captained by Norma DeFusco, this second year varsity sport qualified for the Regional Tournament.

Girls' Volleyball

The Girl's Basketball Team, coached by Mr. Lawson, was led by tri-captains Norma Defusco, Caren DeMoulas, Cathy Beruso. Although the team record was 3-11, both J.V. and Varsity games were close and exciting.

LEAGUE
+ STATE
CHAMPIONS

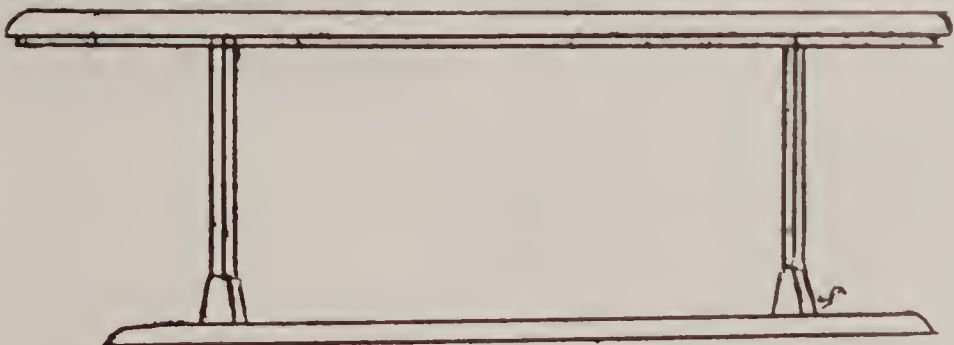

This year's team, although it is very young with a few veterans, was very successful. Under the leadership of captains Andy Chattoo, Louis Pizzarro, Joe Caffery and great coaching of Coach R. Bourdalasi and coach R. Welch, it went on to be the League and State Champions.

Girls Gymnastics

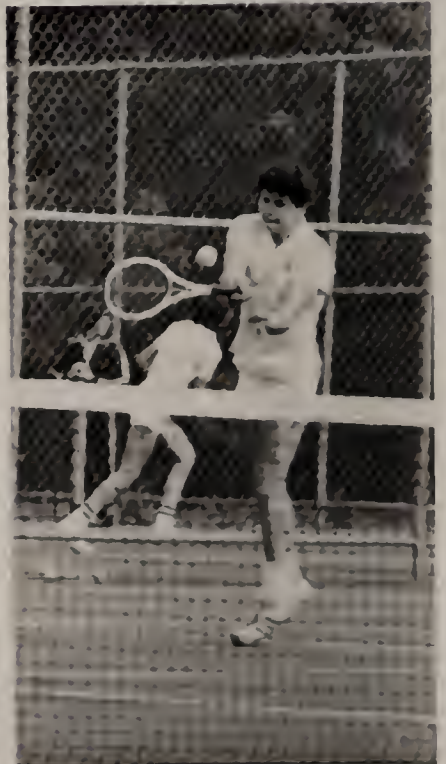

The Girl's Gymnastics Team, coached by Mrs. Lawson and Mrs. Sullivan, split the season with a record of 4-4. Captain Becky Meier helped lead the team through close victories and losses.

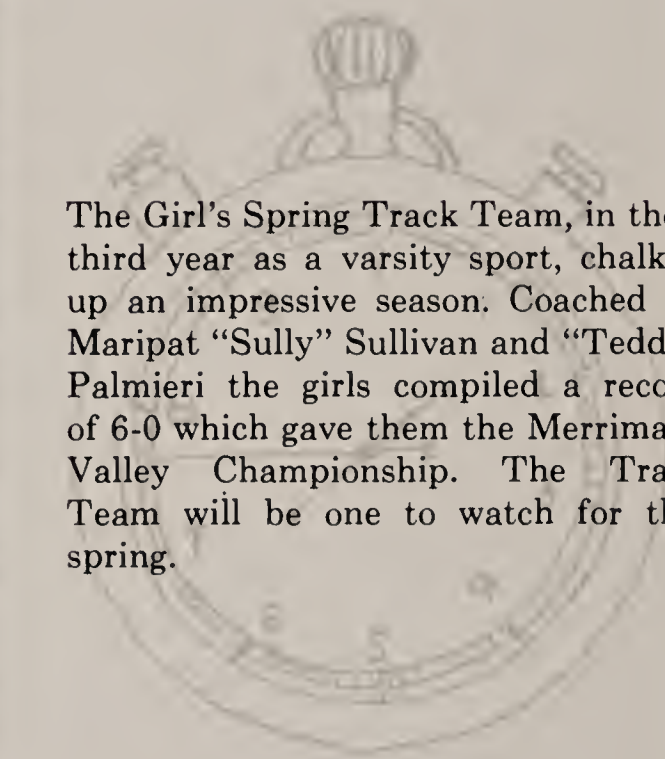

The Girl's Spring Track Team, in their third year as a varsity sport, chalked up an impressive season. Coached by Maripat "Sully" Sullivan and "Teddy" Palmieri the girls compiled a record of 6-0 which gave them the Merrimack Valley Championship. The Track Team will be one to watch for this spring.

A sepia-toned photograph of a landscape. In the foreground, there is a path or a clearing with some low-lying vegetation. In the middle ground, a body of water, possibly a lake or a wide river, stretches across the frame. The background shows a distant shoreline with some trees and a cloudy sky. The overall tone is nostalgic and serene.

Best of Luck to the Graduating Class

A pollution-free, resource-conserving answer to the Earth's energy problems by the year 2000? Raytheon, together with three other companies, is currently at work on one solution that would use an inexhaustible energy source — the sun.

With satellite power stations, the sun could literally become an electrical powerhouse for the Earth. Such stations, more than 22,000 miles in space, would gather solar energy, convert it first to electricity and then to microwave energy for transmission to Earth.

Satellite solar power — not just a designer's dream. It may well be a reality by your 25th reunion.

Congratulations To Andover High School Class Of 1977.
